Turkish steelmakers holding back from deep-sea scrap purchases

By Cem Turken - Tuesday 19 August

Turkish steel producers remained hesitant about deep-sea steel scrap imports due to limited finished steel sales during the summer lull, trade sources told Fastmarkets on Tuesday August 19.

The mills in the country made their most recent scrap purchases on August 8, when a steel mill in Izmir booked a US cargo of HMS 1&2 (80:20) at $345.50 per tonne CFR, along with a second US cargo of similar material at $346 per tonne CFR. And the mill also booked a Baltic Sea cargo of HMS 1&2 (80:20) at $341.50 per tonne CFR.

A steel mill in the Marmara region also booked a European cargo of HMS 1&2 (80:20) at $343 per tonne CFR on August 8.

Turkish steelmakers have booked around ten deep-sea cargoes so far in August, while the expectations for the whole month were for 25-30 cargo deals, Fastmarkets was told.

But limited finished steel sales during the summer slowdown, and financial difficulties in the country, have dissuaded the mills from making further raw material purchases since last week.

"This week's market is once again quite calm," a Turkish mill source said. "Severe weather and holiday [absences] kept steel sales low. Therefore, mills are postponing their scrap purchases for the moment."

Due to a lack of new activity in the deep-sea markets, the daily scrap indices remained steady on August 19.

Fastmarkets' daily index for steel scrap, HMS 1&2 \(80:20 mix\), US origin, cfr Turkey, was calculated at $345.52 per tonne on Tuesday, stable day on day.

The corresponding daily index for steel scrap, HMS 1&2 \(80:20 mix\), North Europe origin, cfr Turkey, was calculated at $340.66 per tonne on August 19, also flat day on day.

This left the premium for US scrap over European material at $4.86 per tonne on Tuesday.

Metro Metals acquires Bockman & Son, expanding Portland area footprint

By Geoff Mattson - Tuesday 19 August

Metro Metals Northwest Inc has expanded its Portland operations with the acquisition of Bockman & Son, a family-owned scrap company established in 1946.

Victor Winkler, president and chief executive officer of Metro Metals, confirmed to Fastmarkets on Tuesday August 19 that the integration will involve consolidating Bockman & Son's fleet, accounts and operations into Metro Metals' existing facilities.

"We'll continue everything running the way it was running," Winkler said, noting that the company plans on retaining employees, with no immediate operational or leadership changes.

The acquisition does not include rail or port access and will not introduce new shredding capacity. Instead, Bockman & Son's operations will be consolidated directly into Metro Metals' existing facilities.

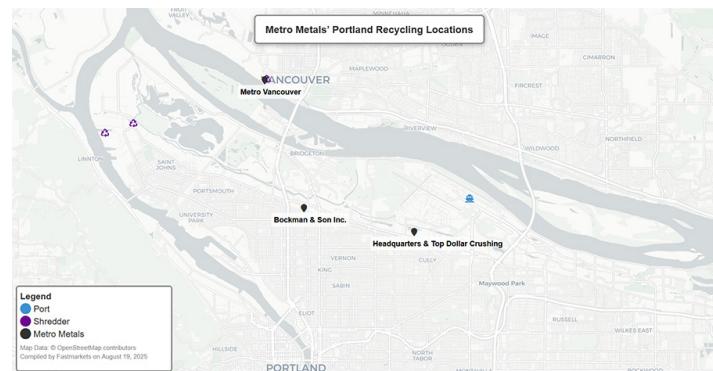

Bockman & Son's longstanding industrial accounts will be consolidated to improve efficiency, according to the company. It has traditionally processed a range of materials, but its operations are primarily focused on ferrous scrap.

"These guys have been around for a long time handling industrial accounts, and it works out well to put them in here to benefit our existing infrastructure," Winkler said.

The financial terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

Founded in 1991, Metro Metals has built a presence across Oregon, Washington and Colorado, operating a fleet of trucks and maintaining export and processing capacity in the Pacific Northwest. Past acquisitions, including Simon Metals in Tacoma, Washington, have supported Metro Metals' regional expansion and strengthened its infrastructure in the area.

Fastmarkets' steel scrap HMS 1&2 \(80:20\), export index, fob Los Angeles was calculated at $304.00 per tonne on Wednesday August 13, unchanged since July 30.

Containerized steel scrap prices to Taiwan increase further on firm offers, but demand lagging

By Tianran Zhao - Tuesday 19 August

Spot prices for containerized steel scrap imported into Taiwan continued to trend upward on Tuesday August 19. Suppliers from the US kept offers at firm levels, but buyers were struggling to follow due to slow rebar sales, sources have told Fastmarkets.

On Monday, a major electric arc furnace (EAF) steelmaker kept both its rebar selling price and local scrap buy prices unchanged for the week.

The steelmaker's rebar selling price remained at NT$16,600 ($553) per tonne, and at NT$8,900 per tonne for domestic heavy melting scrap (HMS) this week.

In the import market, offers for US-origin containerized HMS 1&2 (80:20) were heard at $307-315 per tonne CFR Taiwan on Tuesday, widening upward by $5 per tonne from the offers of $307-310 per tonne heard late last week.

There were transactions for such material heard concluded at $304-307 per tonne CFR Taiwan by Tuesday, according to sources.

But some market sources have started to see a decrease in buying activities for imported scrap in Taiwan.

"Suppliers kept their offers quite strong over the past two weeks. Some of them are unwilling to sell below $310 per tonne CFR Taiwan. But there is lack of support from demand side due to slow rebar sales amid the summer lull in the construction sector," a Taiwanese trading source told Fastmarkets.

Rebar prices in Taiwan have been quite strong in the past two weeks due to high raw material costs in both local and import markets, but the actual transacted volume was quite limited, sources said.

"Rebar sales were largely muted last week. Downstream customers are still digesting such high rebar prices," a Taiwanese mill source said.

Fastmarkets' twice-weekly price assessment for containerized steel scrap HMS 1&2 \(80:20 mix\), US material import, cfr main port Taiwan, was $304-307 per tonne on Tuesday, up by $2 per tonne from $302-305 per tonne on August 14.

Bulk Japanese H1:H2 (50:50) offers were heard at $317-320 per tonne CFR Taiwan on Tuesday, with deals heard concluded at $318 per tonne CFR, Fastmarkets heard.

Mexico ferrous scrap prices rise; Monterrey posts sharp gains

By Evan Pfab - Tuesday 19 August

Mexico scrap prices mostly increased during the week to Tuesday August 19, with material delivered into Monterrey posting some of the steepest rises and widening the price spread between the region's and Bajio's secondary scrap grades.

Fastmarkets' weekly assessment of steel scrap cut structural/plate 3ft max, consumer buying price, delivered mill Monterrey was 6,400 pesos ($343) per tonne on Tuesday, jumping by 700 pesos per tonne from 5,700 pesos per tonne on Tuesday August 12.

The corresponding assessment of steel scrap cut structural/plate 3ft max, consumer buying price, delivered mill Bajio increased by 100 pesos per tonne week on week to 5,400 pesos per tonne on Tuesday, leaving a wide spread of 1,000 pesos per tonne between the two regions.

The sharp jumps in Monterrey, particularly the 700-peso rise in secondary scrap, contrasted with more modest changes in the Bajio region, but market participants suggested the increases may not carry through without stronger demand signals.

A seller into the Bajio region said the trajectory for the rest of the Northern Hemisphere summer into the fall season will likely be flat unless broader economic activity picks up. "If infrastructure projects and stability in the automotive sector begin in Mexico, the price of scrap metal could rise," the seller said.

"Otherwise, pricing won't change much between now and December," they added.

Fastmarkets' weekly assessment of the steel scrap No1 heavy melt, consumer buying price, delivered mill Monterrey was 5,000 pesos per tonne on Tuesday, up by 300 pesos per tonne from August 12.

The corresponding assessment for steel scrap No1 heavy melt, consumer buying price, delivered mill Bajio was 5,200 pesos per tonne on Tuesday, rising by 400 pesos per tonne in the same comparison.

For broader perspective, Fastmarkets' weekly assessment of steel reinforcing bar \(rebar\), delivered Monterrey, Mexico was 14,000-14,200 pesos per tonne on Thursday August 14, marking a spread of roughly 9,000 pesos per tonne between rebar and heavy melting scrap.

In July, the spread stood at 9,400-10,100 pesos per tonne.
